Platform: Zoom
Target Audience: All members of VSIT
No. of Attendees: 175

Vidyalankar School of Information Technology celebrated Rashtriya Ekta Diwas on October 31, 2020 on Zoom between 5 pm and 6:30 pm. The activity was an institutional activity and saw a participation of 175 members of VSIT. Ekta Diwas, also known as, National Unity Day, marks the birth anniversary of the Iron Man of India, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel. The celebration was centred on the topic: “Today’s Youth and their Role in Nation-Building”. The guest speaker of the event was Air Vice-Marshall Suryakant Chintaman Chafekar. He is the recipient of the Ati Vishisht Seva Medal and the Shourya Chakra.

The guest speaker addressed the audience and expressed his interest in the attitudes generally held towards the patriotic sentiment. He spoke of the need to develop patriotism organically as part of a value system in education. The notion of patriotism as a value reserved for those in the defence forces needs to be changed for patriotism is a sentiment that every citizen must share and possess equally. He reminisced about his days in the air force and spoke of key values that help mould a personality into a worthy citizen: honesty, integrity, courage, conviction and determination. The courage to innovate is crucial to grow as an individual and notes how the current generations, millennials and centennials, must be driven to innovate and excel. It is one thing to lead; another to manage. The choice between leadership and management decides the value system of an individual and additionally, the moral alignment towards notions of patriotism and collectivism. He specifically noted that each generation has a lot to learn from each other and this is vital in ensuring fluidity between value systems.

He exemplified his stance by providing an example of the Daulat Beg Oldi airfield and how a site that did not seem of much use was suddenly valued as a strategic airbase for operations. To illustrate this, he played a video which awed the audience. He recollected an observation by Swami Vivekananda on the importance of perseverance to achieve to succeed. He concluded the session with a memorable axiom: “Destiny is not a matter of chance, but a matter of choice”, foregrounding the autonomy of an individual in decision-making.
